Who Pays For Advertising?

There have been expressed and printed many views on "Who Pays for Advertising." Here is a view from a member of the Minnesota State Press Association, which is worth reprinting:

"If the advertiser has to foot the bill, then the incentive to advertise would not exist, as the more a firm advertised, the poorer it would become, and it would not continue the program. Well, then, does the consumer pay the cost of advertising? Obviously, no, for if the consumer thought he was paying more for advertised goods than others, then he would immediately patronize non-advertised goods, bought from wide awake firms. Advertising creates quality and lower prices. All right, then there is only one answer left. The firm who does not advertise pays the cost for those who do. Believe it or not, the man in business justifying the use of advertising pays for it whether he uses it or not!"

Used Cash Prize For Seed Which Brought the Title

Calgary, Feb. 15.—Ten dollars won as first prize for sweet clover at last year's fair was used to purchase certified wheat seed which produced a sample of Reward that won for William J. Bryant, Boyle, Alta., the championship wheat title at the Alberta Seed Fair here last night.

It was the first time Bryant had shown wheat here, but he is well known as sweet clover champion of Canada, having won first prize at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto. He took third place in sweet clover at the Regina World's Grain Show last year.

At the International Hay and Grain Show at Chicago Bryant, who has only been farming for eight years secured a second for sweet clover and a sixth for wheat. His sweet clover took first place at the Alberta Fair.

Emigrating from England in 1905, Bryant worked on Railway maintenance for 23 years, before he decided to go on the land. He raises only wheat and sweet clover. The Reward strain that won him the Alberta title was purchased at the LaCombe Experimental Farm.

Bryant had not been in Calgary for 20 years and said when he first arrived he got lost until he found his way back to the station, which was a wooden building when he knew it.

Beloved Ruler Who Won The Admiration of World During War --- Dead

Duke of Brabant, 32 year old Son of Albert I Will Succeed to Throne—Queen is Prostrated by Grief—Royal Sportsman Alone at Time of Accident.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Feb. 19.—Little Belgium—a nation bowed in deepest mourning—made ready simultaneously today to bury a beloved Sovereign and crown his sorrowing son.

Albert I, King of the Belgians, who met tragic death Saturday evening at his favorite sport, mountain climbing, will be honored on Thursday with all the solemn pomp a grieving country can bestow.

Within 24 hours after the obsequies, Crown Prince Leopold will become at 32 the new king. The Crown Prince and Princess the former Princess Astrid of Sweden, 28 years old, rushed to the royal castle at Laeken from Switzerland, arriving early today.

Like Queen Elizabeth, prostrated by grief at the tragedy, they did not hear of the king's fatal fall until many hours after his body had been found early Sunday morning.

Today both the prince and the princess remained in the castle.

The first important ceremony of the period of mourning, which will continue until after the funeral was the removing of the body to the Royal Palace in Brussels Monday night.

The body was borne on a gun carriage between solid walls of war veterans along the route through the city—war veterans who remembered the great figure of a man 6 feet 2 inches tall who risked his life almost daily to be close to his soldiers during the trying days of the war.

Lanterns shaded with black crepe will light the mournful line of march.

The body will lie in state at the palace in Brussels until Thursday when it will be taken to the St. Gudule Cathedral. Interment will be in the Royal Crypt at Laeken.

Mrs. Marcy and Mrs. Otto were in charge of arrangements in the hall, and are to be congratulated on the success of the evening.

The W. I. wishes to thank all in attendance for hearty co operation. Proceeds amounted to $31.00.

A Tired, Worn Out Woman Can't Make a Happy Home

There is no happiness in the home when the mother is sick and worried by the never ending household duties. She gets run down and becomes nervous and irritable, has shortness of breath, faint and dizzy, can't sleep, and gets up in the morning feeling as tired as she went to bed, and is downhearted and discouraged.

Milburn's H. & N. Pills will soon convince women it is not necessary to suffer, as they build up the nervous system and bring back the former health and vigor.

Prevention Of War

As this article is written, headlines in the daily newspapers tell of rioting in the streets of Paris and in many of the provincial cities and towns of France; of barricaded streets and buildings in Vienna and other Austrian centres of population where Government forces resist and seek to put down an uprising on the part of Socialists in that country; of warlike preparations on the part of Russia in anticipation of a struggle with Japan. In a word, reports from both Europe and Asia seem to indicate that just below the surface of things there is a seething volcano that may at any moment burst forth to spread death and destruction among the nations on a scale that might surpass the Great War of 1914-1918.

And while the front pages of the daily papers feature these alarming reports, inside pages in many of the larger papers are devoted to the presentation of hundreds of pictures taken in the Great War, and with particular reference to the part taken in that grim struggle by the manhood of this Dominion. Many of these pictures are terrible, shocking, gruesome. They depict little or nothing of what used to be regarded as the glamour and glory of war; instead, they reveal a life passed in the midst and hourly expectation of death, or mutilation worse than death, and in surroundings such as the meanest beast would not tolerate. These pictures illustrate modern war for the awful thing it is, and no doubt the object in presenting these pictures to the public at this time is to develop a horror of war and to strengthen the determination of the people of Canada to resist any future outbreak of hostilities with all the influence it is possible for them to exert.

Admitting the very worthy motive actuating the publication of these pictures, the question nonetheless does intrude itself as to whether such publication will serve the desired purpose; rather, whether the pictures, despite their gory and repulsive nature, may not have exactly the opposite of the desired effect with many persons. It is to be remembered that we are living in very difficult times; that thousands of men are out of employment, living in idleness upon relief payments from the State; that, in particular, the youth of the country to a very great extent are unable to find avenues in which to employ their stored up energies and give full play to their initiative and ambitions. To many of them comes the feeling, amounting almost to a conviction, that anything would be better than the deadening routine of a life of having nothing to do.

Faced at such a time with a pictorial review of all the activity, the excitement, the new experiences and thrills, and the adventure inseparable from war, is there not grave danger that, instead of shocking our youth with the horrors and sufferings of war, we may not actually develop in the minds of many the thought that they would not be averse to undergoing the hardships, sufferings and possible death inseparable from war in order to substitute for their present routine of idleness the experiences, excitement and adventures of war.

In all of us there is a longing for adventure. We all desire to visit foreign lands, to see and experience something new and different. Down through the centuries, and probably never more so than in this present age, men—even women—enjoy speed, action, thrills. Danger means nothing in these days to people desiring of establishing some new record; people are ready to risk their lives in almost every conceivable kind of an enterprise.

It is wise, therefore, no matter how laudable the object sought to be served, to present to the youth of Canada at a time when, temporarily at least, thousands of young men in their late teens and early twenties are at loose ends, with nothing to do, daily instalments of a pictorial history of the greatest war of all times showing what their fathers and elder brothers experienced of action and adventure as well as of suffering and death.

There is no glory in war; there is no gain in war. Victor suffers almost as greatly as the vanquished. The last Great War has surely impressed that fact upon the nations. And the aftermath of war, the enormous financial and economic destruction and loss which inevitably follows all wars, brings sorrows, sufferings and ever accumulating losses almost as great as the toll of war itself. Indeed, war instead of solving problems only creates new and even greater ones, leading inevitably to another war. That is the basic cause of the unprecedented length of the present depression, because the apparent inevitability of another world war prevents any return of confidence; rather every person and every nation is planning and preparing for themselves in the light of what may happen and the happening of which is beyond their own control.

The Canadian people do not want war. If the other nations of the world spent no more money or thought on armaments and preparation for war than Canada does, there would be little danger of another war afflicting this old world. The Canadian people are opposed to war, and are desirous of doing everything they can to prevent it. The question is: Are we going about our educational work of prevention in the right way? Rather, is there not a considerable degree of danger that, quite unintentionally, we are creating an impression in certain quarters that, after all, another war might not be wholly undesirable.

Will Attempt Daring Aeronautical Feat

British Parapontist, Anxious To Make Drop From Stratosphere

"I want to be the first man to drop from the stratosphere and I'm ready to gamble my life on a jump from a height of 25 miles."

John Tramm, the British parachutist who has survived more than 2,000 jumps, announced in these words the most daring aeronautical feat as yet planned by man. He is appealing to M. E. Ridge, youthful American, who intends to ascend 25 miles by balloon, for passage in the open basket in order to make the leap.

Experts say he will have only a 50-50 chance of emerging alive from the drop, even if Ridge should pierce the stratosphere with his daring passenger.

Tramm is tired of "experts" and maintains that a healthy man can safely pass through the terrific ordeal of a 25-mile drop if properly clothed and equipped with a special breathing apparatus. If Ridge accepts the offer, the feat will be attempted in England during 1931. Such distinguished scientists as Prof. J. B. S. Haldane, respiration authority, and Sir Robert Davis, are heartily supporting Ridge in his efforts to attempt for the 25-mile balloons ascent in an open basket. That is twice the height achieved so far in a swayed gondola.

"I've already been up to heights of more than four miles and my record delayed drop was from a height of three and a half miles," said Tramm.

About a quarter-million sea-going passengers arrive and depart from London in a year.

Want St. Paul's Protected

No Excavation In London Cathedral Area Should Be Allowed

Excavation and operations in the neighbourhood within a defined area around St. Paul's Cathedral (London), should be controlled by Act of Parliament. This suggestion follows publication of the full report which is based upon investigations of Sir Alexander Gibb and Ralph Freeman, British engineers. The suggestion is that a "sacred area" should be established around St. Paul's in which area "some control is essential, up to the point of prohibition in an extreme construction of all underground works." The report expresses the desirability of avoiding traffic vibrations in the vicinity of the cathedral and urges that means be devised to this end. Dangers to the immense and ancient fabric of St. Paul's Cathedral have been present for many years.

The Beak Too

"I don't want to eat this egg. It's not a nice egg," protested the six-year-old daughter of the house at the breakfast table.

"Mary," said her mother sternly, "you are always complaining of your food. Eat what is placed before you—every bit of it—without another word, or else I'll have to give you a good spanking!"

All was quiet for some minutes. Then from the other end of the table sounded a muffled voice:

"Mother, dear, do I have to eat the beak too?"

Marvels of the Human Eye

By F. M. CROWE, Optometrist-Optician, Calgary

This is the first of a series of twelve articles written by F. M. Crowe, well-known Optometrist of Calgary. No doubt many readers will find these articles not only extremely interesting but of exceptional educational value. The first three articles deal with the anatomy of the eye describing its various parts and their uses. Other articles will follow each week describing in a general way in language easily understood: Far-sightedness, Near-sightedness, Astigmatism, Old-Age Sight, Cataract, conditions necessary for good and comfortable vision, why eyesight is the chief cause of headaches and nervousness and general information regarding the care and protection of the eyesight.

It would be advisable for readers to preserve the above splendid diagram of the eye for reference which will be of much assistance in understanding this important subject.

NO. 1—SOME OF THE PARTS AND THEIR USES.

The Sclerotic is the first coat and is known as "The white of the eye." It is hard and almost opaque forming a protection to the rest of the eye. It comprises about five sixths of the posterior of the globe.

The Cornea comprises the remaining one sixth of the first coat and is fitted into the Sclerotic somewhat like the crystal of a watch fits into its case. The Cornea is highly polished and transparent permitting the rays of light to pass through it. It should be symmetrically curved in all directions and if not so a condition known as Astigmatism exists, which will be explained fully in another article.

The Aqueous Chamber is situated behind the Cornea and is filled with the Iris into the Anterior and Posterior portions. The Aqueous is a clear, transparent, watery fluid, slightly saline.

The Iris or colored "curtain of the eye" corresponds to the diaphragm in the camera, automatically admitting more or less light as occasion requires. It is a narrow circular band about one fifth of an inch wide with a hole, known as the pupil, in the centre. The Iris is of many shades of colors in different individuals. Contrary to a popular idea, the color of the eyes has no relation to the "strength of the eyes." The pupil is merely a hole in the Iris and looks black because there is no light inside, but when we light up the interior with the Ophthalmoscope the light pink color of the Retina is seen with the arteries and veins running all directions. Around the inner margin of the Iris is a muscle which contracts in strong light thereby making the pupil smaller and preventing an excessive amount of light from affecting the sensitive Retina. When we enter a darkened room, which requires more light to see, the relaxing muscles contract causing the pupil hole to be larger.

Inventor Describes Electric Needle To Revive Person Apparently Dead

Electricity as a means of resuscitating apparently dead persons was described to physicians at Philadelphia by Dr. Albert S. Hyman, of New York, inventor, who assisted several experiments have been successful.

Dr. Hyman uses a slender golden needle charged with the amount of electricity produced by the normal beating heart. This is plunged directly into the heart, he said, in the same manner that the adrenalin has been injected for years.

Adrenalin, Dr. Hyman said, has been used with indifferent success, but the electrical invention has raised the probability of success to between 40 and 45 per cent. The instrument has proved successful in cases where death was caused by shock, in accident, child birth or operations while under ether, according to the inventor. In cases, however, where death was caused by constitutional deterioration the needle is ineffective.

Another Surgical Triumph

Man Recovers Sight After Astonishing Operation On Eyes

Henry Watson, 29 years old and blind since he was two, looks wonderfully on a world he had seen but forgotten. Behind his recovery was a triumph of modern surgery.

Watson lost his sight when disease attacked the corners of his eyes, the transparent shell that protects the exposed surface. His case remained apparently hopeless until Dr. Tudor Thomas, noted Cardiff specialist, became interested in him. From his sightless eyes Dr. Thomas peeled the diseased corneas, replacing them with healthy corneas from the eyes of two persons whose sight had failed from other causes.

Widespread interest in the case brought many famous surgeons to see Watson while he lay in hospital.

OCCASIONAL WIFE

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER
Author of "Joretta," "Lipstick Girl" Etc.

CHAPTER XXXI.

"We were speaking yesterday," Camilla began steadily, glancing around the table at the men who faced her attentively. "Of reaching the household buying public—the women—through the children. And, of course, we can't reach children with adult ideas. There is nothing so attractive to children as a story, and the more the story appeals to their imaginations, the better they like it."

Heads nodded silent and attentive agreement.

"So, I have worked out, very briefly, my suggestion for a story which will lend itself to indefinite time and at the same time make a complete effect from the beginning. At least, it seems that way to me. I am presuming with my judgment for the sake of explanation, of course," she smiled apologetically.

Smiling heads encouraged her to continue.

"It is a picture story and the characters are the Tiny Tots of Tinyville, who are diminutive people. The general idea is not new, of course. All children are familiar with fairies, gnomes, kiewpies, brownies and whatnot. But I have given to these individual names and characteristics and some new experiences that may appeal to youngsters. There are the chief Tiny Tot family and their relatives and friends—and enemies, presented in colored drawings that require very little text. Most of that is given in their own conversation."

She offered the first card of drawings to Mr. Weeks, then presented one to each of her critics. "I have first made a sketch of each principal character, then a series of stories. For the best results, they should run in weekly publications, so as to carry an instant. She knew that fifty dollars or even a hundred dollars was no fortune, but that she—Camilla—could earn that much money for herself every week, seemed miraculous. She nodded, before her voice could command a sound. "Any arrangements you make are satisfactory to me." Anything, she thought, to get a start, to prove her ability to herself and others—oh, she would have accepted much less for the opportunity to begin her work.

"May I ask one favor of you, Mr. Weeks?" she asked hesitantly. "Why—of course—"

"When you submit these to your client," she indicated the drawings, "please don't tell anyone who made them. Your artists need not be known to your advertisers, I suppose."

"No, not at all, if you prefer to have it that way. Our work goes out as a firm, but usually if an artist is very successful, her individual work attracts attention."

"In that case, it would be all right," she agreed, "but I much prefer to remain anonymous for the present."

Then she was shaking the hands and accepting the compliments of the executive board, and presently found herself in her own car driving toward home. Everything looked changed, different, she thought. As if the world had donned its holiday attire to celebrate her victory. And everywhere she glanced, her Tiny Tots printed themselves on the sky, the treetops, the buildings and pavement—waving their hands at her gleefully.

She turned into the park when she reached the entrance, and drove leisurely along the boulevards. Traffic was not heavy at this time of day, so driving was a pleasure. Later, it became a hazardous responsibility.

Camilla thought about Peter, and her dinner engagement with him tonight. How happy he would be over the news of her success! Six hours was a long time to wait to tell him, but she would make herself impatient. She would go home and rest for awhile before time to dress for dinner, she decided; and realized that she was quite weary, now that the stimulus of anxiety had been withdrawn and the first excitement of victory had passed.

Tomorrow, she would look for an apartment and get settled before Monday, when it had been temporarily arranged that she would begin her work. Rose would be happy over her good news, also. And the thought followed that she would be able to do much for Rose now—far more than she ever had been able to do when she lived with wealth surrounding her. Her social position always has commanded practically all of her allowance. She would be able, also, to slip her own mother an extra bill occasionally if her salary were doubled soon. That meant that she had to succeed. It meant that the Wheatheart Cereal corporation would prosper and expand. Some day, perhaps, she would acknowledge her part in the campaign to Alexander Hoyt, and deserve the words of approval that he had withheld, always. Why, she had often conjectured, but never decided.

For dinner with Peter that evening, she selected a frock of coveting yellow crepe, severely cut and very recherche for the occasion. She was celebrating not only an important event, but she was bidding farewell to the girl of the past who had been Camilla Hoyt, even as she had not done on the day when she had married Peter.

"That day had marked a transition from youth to womanhood, from love's promise to love's fulfillment, this was a revolution from reluctant dependence to glorious independence. (To Be Continued)

World's Oil Supply

Will Last For Next Thirty Centuries Is Estimated

Petroleum in known deposits and at the rate of the present consumption is sufficient to last the world for the next 30 centuries, according to Dr. Gustave Egloff, of Chicago. With only two million acres of oil wells producing in the United States alone, Dr. Egloff points out that America has 1,100,000,000 acres of possible oil land that is yet to be explored and developed.

India As Wheat Producer

As a wheat producer India is almost equal to Canada. Its gross production amounts to about 7,736,000 tons. The total area under wheat is about 32 million acres, of which the Punjab alone contributes 10 million acres.

Hypnotism By Phonograph

Method Has Recently Been Invented By German Doctor

Possibilities of the use of "Psychophone," the method of hypnotism by phonograph, which was invented recently by Dr. Casimir Radwan, in Berlin, is reported to be arousing apprehension in Europe. The method is that human voices of strong, suggestive or persuasive power are recorded on phonograph records, which are delivered to patients. The patient sits before the phonograph in a devout attitude and listens to the record until hypnotized. There are special messages for the business man, those unable to concentrate and for the nervous. Dr. Radwan claims many cures. Critics declare that the idea could be used in propaganda or by cults and political parties, and if carried to talking pictures would have an ominous mass-suggestion power.

Safe Way To Reduce

39 lbs. Off—and She Feels Better

A woman who has found a sure, safe way to lose fat—without freak dieting or dangerous drugs—writes:—

"A year ago I was eaten up with rheumatism, and was far too fat. I weighed 154 lbs. and, as my height is only 5 feet 2 inches, you can judge my appearance. I have taken Kruschen regularly, and not dieted, and now I weigh 115 lbs., which is just nice, and, further, I feel better in health and my rheumatism has vanished." (Mrs. D. N.)

Unlike certain drastic drugs, Kruschen does not aim to reduce by ridding food through the body; its action is not confined to a single part of the system. It has a tonic influence upon every organ of elimination, every gland, every nerve, every vein. Gently, but surely, it rids the system of all fat-forming food refuse, of all poisons and harmful acids which give rise to rheumatism, digestive disorders, and other ills.

FREE TRIAL OFFER

If you have never tried Kruschen—try it now at once. We have distributed a very special "GIANT" package which makes a complete trial of Kruschen for you. Ask your druggist for the new "GIANT" 75c. This consists of our regular 75c. bottle together with a special trial bottle sufficient for about one week. Open the trial bottle first, put it to the test, and, if not entirely convinced that Kruschen does everything we claim it to do, the regular bottle will be good for you. If you are convinced, it is authorized to return the regular bottle to us. No cash question. You have tried Kruschen free, at our expense. It could be no better. Write to: Dr. J. G. Griffin, Inc., Ltd., 140, St. James Street, London, W. Importers: Medifarm, Inc., Ltd., Toronto.

Wake up your Liver! —No Calomel necessary

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of liquid bile into your system every day. Without this bile, trouble starts. Poor digestion, slow elimination. Poison in the body. General weakness. How can you expect to sleep up a situation like this, in company with these blood-purifying salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or powder? They don't make up, your liver.

You need Carter's Little Liver Pills. Purely vegetable. Safe. Quick and sure results. Get them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c. a tin. All druggists.

Trying Open-Air Method

Chinese Government Has New Cure For Opium Habit

From Canton, China, comes a new cure for the drug habit. It is an open-air method. The Canton government has issued an official proclamation that on and after March the first all opium addicts, if caught, will be forced to live in roofless houses and endure, so the edict says, "terrible exposure to the elements." As an opium smoker lies in a closely shuttered, stuffy room, exposure to an unlimited quantity of fresh air is to him the worst of tortures. So the Canton government counts on this aversion to fresh air to bring the opium addicts to their senses.

Magazine For Blind

Marking a new era in journalism for the blind, a magazine in raised type for the sightless has been printed at the Braille Institute of America in Los Angeles. The periodical will carry a digest of world news, the latest political events of import, some bits of humor, household hints and an occasional short story. The magazine, to be issued monthly, is entitled the "New Moon," in honor of Dr. William Moon, the Englishman who perfected a type for blind in 1847.

Little Helps For This Week

"And what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."—Micah 6:8.

"Put on therefore kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, long-suffering."—Col. 3:12.

Plant in us a humble mind, Patient, pliant, and kind; Meek and lowly let us be, Full of goodness, full of Thee. —C. Wesley.

There is no true and constant gentleness without humility; while we are so fond of ourselves we are easily offended with others. Let us be persuaded there is nothing due to us, and then nothing will disturb us. Let us often think of our own infirmities, and we shall become indulgent towards those of others.—Fenelon.

Endeavor to be patient in bearing with the defects and infirmities of others, of whatsoever sort they be; for thyself hath many failings which must be borne with by other people. If thou canst not make thyself such a one as thou wouldst, how canst thou expect to have another in all things to thy liking.—Thomas A. Kempis.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stewart of 129 S. Caroline St., Hamilton, Ont., says: "I had indigestion most all my life, and was continually bloated with gas. My stomach was very bad, and I would become dizzy-headed frequently. But Dr. Price's Great Medical Discovery built up my system and entirely cured me of the stomach distress. I have had no stomach trouble in years." All druggists. Write Dr. Price's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y.

OBITUARY

Mr. J. C. Cottrell received the sad news last week that his grandson, Bill Dutton, of Anaheim, California, 25 years of age, had accidentally shot himself with a gun he was cleaning preparatory to going out for a shoot. The young man lived but a few moments after the accident. The oldtimers of the Cereal district will remember young Billy Dutton who was here with his mother, Mrs. Dutton in 1912 and 13. The lad was then about four years of age. The funeral services were held in Anaheim on Feb. 20th.
